AI real estate investment service RENOSY realizes reliability, seamlessness, and optimization in asset formation by providing one-stop support for the purchase, management, and sale of property, maximizing operational effectiveness.

As a result of a sales revenue survey for investment real estate companies conducted by Tokyo Shoko Research, Ltd. in March 2026, RENOSY was ranked No. 1 in Japan in investment property sales for the most recent fiscal year, achieving this ranking for the second consecutive year. Furthermore, in a simultaneous survey conducted by Tokyo Shoko Research, Ltd., RENOSY also secured the No. 1 ranking in Japan for investment property purchases[2], earning recognition for both real estate investment sales and purchases.

RENOSY achieves swift and efficient property purchases by leveraging AI and other technologies, such as the automated reading and digitization of property sales drawings. Furthermore, we provide customers considering real estate investment with personalized information through AI-driven tools, including rent prediction tools and interview support AI. In addition to pre-owned compact condominiums, RENOSY has been expanding its product lineup to include apartments, detached houses, and overseas properties, striving to support optimal asset formation that meets a wide range of customer needs.

1. This comparison was based on the total number of units sold and sales revenue for newly built and pre-owned investment condominiums, as well as newly built and pre-owned investment apartments.
2. Investment Property Purchases Performance Survey for Investment Real Estate Companies by Tokyo Shoko Research (March 2026 survey).
